

PORNOGRAPHIC ART THAT BRINGS SOCIAL CHANGE: PORNCEPTUAL LAUNCHES A NEW MAGAZINE

Berlin porn agitators Pornceptual have launched the third issue of their magazine. The theme for the new magazine is Guerrilla Porn and it aims to ask the question: 'Can pornography be a weapon of social justice?' The magazine is a response to times of political and social uproar. Where many societies across the globe have made progressive steps forward in terms of racism, sexism, homophobia, ageism, xenophobia, environmental policy and other important elements of life, as of recent it feels as though much of this work is being swiftly unraveled at the hands of a privileged few. Now, it is our time to maintain this fight.

The magazine features the work of (30??) emerging visual artists, an exclusive interview with Erika Lust and articles to inspire the reader to get into action. Pornography is disruptive in its nature. It often threatens dominant power structures and it is a tool of resistance for non-conforming minorities who are often censored. The magazine aims to use erotic art as a medium of protest: communicating ideas, challenging systems and hegemonic structures, and ultimately changing the world around us through porn.

Focusing on a broad variety of issues ranging from feminist porn to queer issues and usual representations in the pornographic industry – the magazine has invited artists to create pornographic art as a protest.

